LETTER OF RECOMMENDATION

I am extremely glad to write this letter of recommendation for my fervently enthusiastic student Mr. Joshua Prakash, who is applying for Master's degree in your esteemed institute. I have been the Head of the Department of Computer Science. Though I haven't taught him, I got to know about him due to his active participation in the project expo's and project competitions. He performed extremely well in a project competition whose subject is to promote innovative ideas and to portray a prototype of the idea in the form of a working software application which would be useful for controlling massive crowd gathering. He has got appreciation from the chief guest and principle of the college and for shaping out his knowledge into the innovative idea that would be very useful for the event management. The gist of the project is that he developed a prototype of an android application that could help the event manager to sell tickets, manage crowds during entry and to announce emergency messages in case of an emergency. He has done this project at the start of third year where he hasn't had a complete view of computer science. He has done that as he was always updated with the current trends in technologies by reading various research papers and technical blogs.

Joshua is very unique from others and incomparably knowledgeable. He is one of the very few students I got to know in this college and probably the best student I have seen as I couldn't know all the students except the outstanding performances of the college like him. He is one of the toppers of the college and the only student in that batch and the previous batches who has a complete grip of both academic and technical knowledge. He always wanted to have industry exposure before going for further studies. He was selected in one of the best companies that come to campus for placements.

As the Head of his department I am very proud to have such a hardworking student who will dedicatedly utilize the opportunity given to him and develop himself, proving to be a worthy student to your esteemed university. Hence I recommend Mr. Joshua Prakash for the most demanding course in your university and offer him a good platform to shape up his innovative ideas and provide a chance to prove himself. I wish him all the best for his future.
